Hikes Same as

For Fox Cities

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Fox Cities telephone subscribers will pay for service at a rate 2.38 per cent higher than present charges, under new exchange rates established Friday by the Wisconsin public service commission for the Wisconsin Telephone company.

The rate adjustments in Appleton, Neenah, Menasha, Kaukauna, Little Chute and Hortonville will produce additional revenues of about $80,601 for the company, the commission estimated. The new charges will take effect with the next billings. In the Fox Cities area, they are the same as requested by the telephone company in its request to PSC in April.

The commission and the company worked to fix new exchange rates under a rate increase order approved earlier by the regulatory agency calculated to produce additional gross revenues of about $3,472,000, and additional net income of about $1,400,000.

New Rates
Appleton and extended area charges will change as follows: 1-party residence $5.30 to $5.45; 2-party $4.60 to $4.65; 4-party $3.80 to $3.85; rural 4-party $4.10 to $4.15; business 1-party $12.25 to $12.75; message rate $7.50 to $7.75; rural business $6.00 to $6.20; semi-public $9.60 to $10.20.

Kaukauna, Little Chute and Hortonville adjustments will be as follows:

One-party residence $5.10 to $5.25; 2-party $4.40 to $4.45; 4-party $3.60 to $3.65; rural 4-party $3.90 to $3.95; 1-party business $11.25 to $11.75; 2-party $9.00 to $9.50; rural business $5.60 to $5.70; and semi-public $9.30, unchanged.

The Neenah and Menasha rate changes follow:

One-party residence $5.20 to $5.35; 2-party $4.50 to $4.55; 4-party $3.70 to $3.75; rural 4-party $4.00 to $4.05; 1-party business $11.75 to $12.25; measured business $7.25 to $7.50; rural business $5.80 to $5.95, and semi-public $9.30 to $9.90.

Britain Protests Russian Violation Of Shetland Island

London — Britain fired a strong protest to Moscow over the 30 Russian fishermen who swarmed over a Shetland island moor to hunt down a fugitive seaman, the foreign office announced today.

A note delivered to the Soviet embassy yesterday said the British government takes a grave view of the incident.

The fugitive, an Estonian seaman named Erich Teayn, slipped off a trawler in the dark and escaped his Soviet pursuers by hiding in a shepherd's cottage after a breathless chase early last Thursday.

The British note said that if the Russians, members of a fishing fleet cruising in nearby waters, had taken Teayn back by force it would have been "a flagrant violation of the law." The note asked the Soviet government to issue instructions to skippers of all Soviet vessels visiting British waters to make sure nothing like this happens again.

Ike Appeals for Restoration of Funds for Aid

Sees 'Important
Losses' if Cuts are Allowed to Stand

Washington — President Eisenhower met stiff Democratic resistance today to his appeal for restoration of foreign aid funds slashed by a house committee.

Eisenhower said yesterday he was deeply distressed by the house appropriations committee's reduction of $872 million below his request of $3,950,000,000 for economic and military aid to friendly nations in the fiscal year starting next Tuesday.

If the cut is allowed to stand, Eisenhower said, "I fear there will be important losses for the free world and a serious decreasing of the security of the United States."

Vote Next Week

The house will vote next week on the $3,078,000,000 money bill totaling $357 million less than is being spent on overseas assistance in the current fiscal year. It is $597 million less than the $3,675,000,000 ceiling fixed in authorization legislation finally passed yesterday by both houses and sent to the president.

Reacting quickly to the house committee's recommendations, Eisenhower got out a statement saying: "Just as it takes ammunition to fight and win a war it takes mutual resources and sacrifices to win peace. Mutual security dollars, particularly dollars for economic assistance, are the ammunition required to fight and win the peace."

Calls Cut Justified

"If this ammunition is denied, as it would be by the action of the appropriations committee, I fear there will be important losses for the free world and a serious decreasing of the security of the United States."

However, Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, acting senate democratic leader, said he thinks the committee's $872 million reduction below Eisenhower's requests is justified "but it was made in the wrong place."

Alfred Noyes, 77, Dies in England

Isle of Wight, England — Alfred Noyes, 77, a robust British writer who made a living on poetry, died in a hospital today. Probably his best known poem was "Kew in Lilac Time." Another, "The Highwayman," was made into a movie.

Six feet, 200 pounds, clean-shaven and short-haired, Noyes was a far cry from the popular conception of a poet. But his poems immediately became popular here and in the United States. Many of them were set to music.

He made 13 trips to the United States and lectured in more than 1,000 U. S. communities. He was professor of modern English literature at Princeton university from 1913 to 1923. He held honorary degrees from Yale, the University of California and Syracuse university. He was graduated from Oxford.

Watchers Alert for Death of Satellite

Scientists Unable to Say
When or Where It Will Fall

Huntsville, Ala. — Sky-watchers the world over are maintaining a death watch. They are hoping to see the death of a satellite.

Scientists predicted that Explorer III, launched March 26, was to have plunged into the atmosphere of earth any time beginning yesterday, and burn like a meteor when it plows into the upper atmosphere.

Scientists agree generally, however, that anyone seeing the death of Explorer III is likely to be just plain lucky.

Exactly where and when Explorer III will meet its end is a question the National Academy of Science is hoping will be answered by some alert sky-watcher.

Hope for Remnants
The academy has asked that any observer of the satellite's fall inform the academy in Washington, D. C., promptly and protect and preserve the remains, if any.

But there is little likelihood that there will be any remains of Explorer III. Army scientists say it was not built to withstand the intense heat generated by the friction of the atmospheric drag.

The atmosphere of the earth is a combination of gases. Without its cushioning effect, which absorbs the dangerous X-rays and most of the ultra-violet and infra-red radiation emitted by the sun, our planet would be too hot for life as we know it.

Explorer III is likely to burn the 1957 Jordanian crisis.

Promises to Free Engineers

Rebel Assures Wife
Kidnaped Men Get Good Treatment

Havana — Rebels who kidnaped 10 U. S. and 2 Canadian engineers from a mining camp told an American wife that the men would be treated well and released after a few days.

The Cuban government tried today to get the men back. U. S. Ambassador Earl E. T. Smith said he "expects the men will be released fairly soon and unharmed."

The men were abducted from Moa on Cuba's northeast tip Thursday night by 200 rebels who the U. S. state department said were commanded by Raoul Castro, brother of rebel chief Fidel Castro. Three Cubans were killed.

Fidel Castro has been trying since December, 1956, to overthrow President Fulgencio Batista by attacks from the Sierra Maestra, 100 miles southwest of Moa, although his forces have not been very active since defeats in April. Castro has accused the United States of helping Batista.

Mrs. John Schissler, wife of a kidnaped California engineer, said a rebel leader told her the men were taken in reprisal for the alleged U. S. aid but they would be well cared for and released in a few days.

Officials of the Moa Bay Mining Co. reportedly went into the hills to dicker for release of the engineers. The officials expressed confidence that Castro would turn them loose when they pointed out that the incident was bad publicity in the United States.

Unlike the senate bill, which sets a $700 million limit on the amount of government-guaranteed loans to the railroads, the house measure carries no limit on the amount of loans that may be outstanding at one time.

Before passing the bill, the house beat down an attempt to remove a provision which would authorize the interstate commerce commission, rather than state commissions, to pass on discontinuance or change in operation of any train or ferry which crosses from one state to another.

Several southern congressmen protested that this would encroach on states' rights. The senate bill has a similar provision.

Stop Aid to Neutrals, Mme. Chiang Urges

All Goldfine's Records Sought For Probers

Only Way to Get
Truth, Republican
Congressman Says

Washington — Rep. John B. Bennett (R-Mich) said today he will insist that house investigators get all of Bernard Goldfine's records to find the truth amid conflicting statements in the Sherman Adams controversy.

"That's the one way we can corroborate all these things," said Bennett after hearing fresh testimony from Boston businessman John Fox about relationships between Goldfine and Adams.

Fox's new testimony under oath drew more denials.

Bennett, a member of the subcommittee checking relations between Goldfine and Adams, spoke as the house group appeared to be in disagreement over whether to question Fox in secret when Fox returns to the witness stand Monday.

Denies Another Charge

Late yesterday, Adams blasted as "another malicious falsehood" a statement by Fox that Adams "is going to take care of" some troubles Goldfine was having with the federal trade commission.

"I deny it ever happened," Adams said.

Subcommittee Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark) halted Fox right after the controversial witness got in his statements about the house and the checks. But Harris left it open as to whether he would finally agree to hear Fox Monday in closed session, in line with repeated requests from Goldfine attorneys.

Publisher Robert B. Choate of the Boston Herald and Traveler joined in mounting criticism of what he called the subcommittee's "smear and run" methods. Choate, denouncing what Fox had said about him as defamatory, said the congressmen took no steps to check on the truth of Fox's charges before Fox stepped into the committee forum.

Aid to Railroads Given Approval by 348-2 House Vote

Washington — Legislation designed to aid the nation's financially distressed railroads has won overwhelming house approval.

The measure, which includes provision for a government-guaranteed loan program, was passed yesterday 348-2.

If the senate, which has passed a similar bill, refuses to accept the house version a conference committee is expected to seek a compromise.

Unlike the senate bill, which sets a $700 million limit on the amount of government-guaranteed loans to the railroads, the house measure carries no limit on the amount of loans that may be outstanding at one time.

Before passing the bill, the house beat down an attempt to remove a provision which would authorize the interstate commerce commission, rather than state commissions, to pass on discontinuance or change in operation of any train or ferry which crosses from one state to another.

Battle for 12 Hours in Port Region

Beirut — A battle was fought for more than 12 hours overnight in Tripoli between government and rebel forces, insurgent sources reported today.

Eight persons were killed and about 20 wounded—many of them bystanders caught by stray bullets—the reports from the northern port city said.

Maan Karami, brother of the northern rebel leader, Raschid Karami, said that it was the most violent night for Tripoli since the Lebanese crisis began 50 days ago.

Lebanese security forces were braced for new onslaughts after stopping four rebel attacks yesterday in the gravest challenge so far to President Camille Chamoun's pro-western government.

The battle in Tripoli began at 10 o'clock last night when armed men infiltrated close to security forces positions, Karami said.

Artillery Firing

The shooting began to subside this morning, but at noon the thunder of artillery still could be heard in the hills surrounding Tripoli.

Security forces reportedly used heavy artillery frequently during the battle. It was the third straight day of heavy fighting around Tripoli.

An army communique reported the attacks were put down yesterday with the help of jet planes, artillery and armored cars—one of the army's biggest shows of strength during the seven-week rebellion.

Heavy fighting broke out in the morning and again in the afternoon in the capital's Basta Moslem quarter. Armored cars wiped out a rebel street barricade to claim one victory.

Repulse Rebels

At Rasheya in southern Lebanon, the communique said, an attack on the army garrison was driven off in a sharp exchange of gunfire. Another attack at the north Lebanese port of Tripoli was stopped, the army said, after rebels advanced within 50 yards of army positions.

The communique also claimed that government troops, outnumbered 5-1, turned back a heavy rebel assault on Mt. Tereol in the north with aerial and artillery support.

The rebels claim control of three-quarters of this Middle Eastern republic, which is smaller than Connecticut, and say they will keep fighting until Chamoun quits. The president, whose term expires in mid-September, has conceded the rebels dominate at least one-quarter of Lebanon.

Police Fight 1,000 Volunteers Trying To Invade Pakistan

Rawalpindi, Pakistan —

Police battled for five hours today with more than a thousand Pakistani volunteers attempting a peaceful invasion of Indian-held Kashmir. More than 200 volunteers were reported injured but they kept coming.

Pakistan claims Kashmir and long has been in dispute with India over it.

The clash occurred on the road to Srinagar at Chinari. Police charged repeatedly with batons and threatened to fire on the green uniformed volunteers, none of whom carried weapons. The volunteers defied the police by lying in the road and daring the police to shoot.

The march started with more than 300 volunteers moving toward Kashmir. They pushed a thin police line back inch by inch until 1,500 police reinforcements arrived and started hauling the marchers away bodily.

The man was escorted to the door. Then, with a wave to the audience, Laughton said, "I'm sorry somebody seems to have been upset by the schizophrenia in the play."

"I am afraid we shall have to start again, but we can't go back too far because you will miss your buses and trains."

With his wife Elsa Lanchester and actress Joyce Redman, he carried on with the scene.

After the show, Laughton said, "I suddenly realized there was somebody down there in the stalls just about as potty as I am meant to be in the play. And that is potty."

Lebanon Crisis Appears As Middle East Munich

U. S. Offers Aid, Then Discourages It, Now Wants Chamoun to Decide on Help

BY JOSEPH ALSOP

Washington — Nothing quite like the Anglo-American performance in Lebanon has been seen on the world stage since Chamberlain and Delandier made their exits. That is the first point one wants to record, on getting home again.

The similarities of the Lebanese crisis to the Munich crisis are in fact rather numerous. Britain and France guaranteed the independence of Czechoslovakia, because they knew a successful attack on Czechoslovakia would make Hitler the master of all of Europe.

In the same fashion, the United States and Britain promised to protect the independence of the Lebanon, because they knew a successful attack on Lebanon would make Egypt's Gamal Abdel Nasser the master of all the Arab lands of the Middle East.

It is too early to say whether the Lebanese crisis will end in a Middle Eastern Munich. But it is by no means too early to say a heavy price will have to be paid, in one way or another, for the wriggling and writhing and delaying of the last month.

U. S. Responsibility
The chief responsibility for all this wriggling and writhing furthermore rests on the American government. Washington is pleaded for delay, it can now be revealed, while London long ago urged honest fact-finding and quick action. If the original guarantee to Lebanon was right, London was certainly right.

At the outset, of course, it was entirely natural for the Washington and London policymakers to hope the Lebanese would be able to solve their own problem. Within two weeks after the crisis began, however, it was already clear the Lebanese could not do anything of the sort.

Once this unpleasant fact had been established by experience — it was fully established about a month ago — the whole picture was automatically transformed. It was no longer reasonable to hope that the problem would be solved by the Lebanese alone.

Hence it became desirable to come to the aid of the Lebanese government as rapidly and as decisively as possible. Everything ought to have been done to encourage President Chamoun to ask for our aid at once, if we meant to aid him at all.

Try to Discourage
Instead, everything was done to discourage President Chamoun from asking for the aid we promised. Our reiterated pleas, added to Chamoun's own natural hesitations, were entirely successful. Thus a month has passed, in which the situation has worsened immeasurably.

Outside Lebanon, in this wasted month, our own indecision has tempted some of our best friends, especially Canada and the Scandinavian countries, to take the curious position that we have no right to comply with an allied government's request to safeguard it from external attack. The same indecision has also tempted the Soviet Union to begin to strike threatening attitudes. In sum, what could have been done quite cheaply a month ago can only be done now with much risk and cost.

Meanwhile, although still admitting the subversion of Lebanese independence will be a mortal blow to western interests, we are still placing the whole burden of decision on the shoulders of President Chamoun. Alone and without advice, he is to decide whether we come to his aid before it is too late. Thus the great powers of the west are in effect allowing the beleaguered president of little Lebanon to decide their whole future policy in the Middle East.

New London Jaycees Set Fourth of July Program

Arrangements Complete for Fireworks, Band Concert at Hatten Park Stadium

New London — The New London Junior Chamber of Commerce has completed arrangements for fireworks and a band concert Friday night, July 4, at the Hatten Memorial park stadium, according to Leon Hall, president.

The Jaycees, under the direction of Dewey Mathewson and Dean Kromwell, co-chairmen, have planned a "bigger than ever" fireworks display for this year. A pyrotechnic firm from Green Bay is in charge of the display, which will include a spectacular ground display in addition to many aerial rockets.

Jaycees reported that the cost is what determines the size of the display. They announced that another $100 was added to the fund to give New London and area residents a $600 display.

The New London High school band, under the direction of Maurice Bleick, will stage a concert before the fireworks display.

Admission Free

Mathewson announced that there will be no admission, although the Jaycees are planning to pass the hat to help defray the expenses.

He also mentioned that the majority of the Jaycee projects are financed by the sustaining memberships, which are $10 donations from the major New London merchants, business and professional people.

New London Boy Scouts will assist the Jaycees in the sale of soft drinks.

Other members of the committee, in addition to the president and co-chairmen, are Cliff Huss and Don Dent.

The Jaycees will hold an election of officers during the July 9 picnic meeting at the Hatten Memorial park.

Celebrates Tenth Anniversary

Camp Shin-Go-Beek Offers Outdoor Living for Chicago Area Boy Scouts

Waupaca — Celebrating its tenth anniversary July 4 is the Boy Scout Camp Shin-Go-Beek located on a 503-acre oak and pine covered plot overlooking the Twin lakes.

Although widely used, the camp is little publicized since it is not an area council camp. It is owned and operated by the Thatcher Woods council of Oak Park, Ill., and serves campers from the Oak Park and western Chicago suburbs area.

Serving approximately 260 scouts and supervisors, the camp is a neighbor of the Twin Lakes reservation which lies just across the lake. The Twin lakes camp is operated by the Oshkosh council and serves boys from this area.

Camp Grows
Begun on a small scale, the camp has grown and expanded its many facilities. Major buildings there include a new administration building, modern health center, new swimming bath house, large dining room facilities and a huge craft center.

Scouts and Explorers generally stay at the camp for a one or two week period during which boating, camping, swimming, shooting and other outdoor facilities are available for them.

There is no central dormitory. Instead there are about 30 shooting, and some clay target cabin units capable of housing shooting with rifles loaded with about 10 boys each. The small birdshot.

Religious facilities for the four or five around a campfire area.

With this arrangement Scout troops may stick together while at camp.

Scoutmasters Meet
Under the direction of J. W. Copeland and business manager R. F. Etheridge, both of Oak Park, the camper's stay is coordinated through weekly meetings with troop scoutmasters.

The beach house overlooks the large pier lined with canoes and rowboats. One major problem now confronting both camps is the water level of the Twin lakes. Both are down considerably. The little Twin has dried up completely and the larger lake has dropped to the extent that beach areas are about 9 feet larger than before. Neither of the lakes is spring-fed and must rely on rain and other ground waters for survival. Nevertheless, water area is still ample to accommodate the Scouts.

Rambler Sales In May Shatter Existing Records

Rambler retail sales in May shattered all existing records for the third consecutive month as deliveries soared to 20,349, more than double the total of May, 1957. Sales last May totaled 9,961, which amounts to an increase of 104.3 per cent.

In reporting the new all-time sales record, Roy Abernethy, American Motors' vice-president of automotive distribution and marketing, said May's Rambler sales also were up 32.0 per cent over the 15,418 Ramblers delivered in April, the previous record month.

So far this model - fiscal year Rambler sales total 97,956, an increase of 78.7 per cent over the 54,821 in the comparable period of a year ago, Abernethy added.

Abernethy said U.S. sales of compact and smaller cars, including the Rambler and foreign makes, are now accounting for about 10 per cent of the domestic market, against 4.99 per cent for 1957.

These figures were made available by Stebane Nash of Forest Junction, area Rambler dealer.

'Back Saver' Combines Heat and Massage

No More 'Growing Pains' for Modern Weekend Gardeners

Weekend gardeners can now look forward to relief from those Monday morning aches and pains resulting from strenuous activity with the spade and shovel.

A Pennsylvania manufacturer has developed a cyclo-massage unit scientifically designed to relieve the weekend gardener's fatigue and aching muscles.

The cyclo-massage unit, produced by the Niagara Therapy Manufacturing Corporation of Adamsville, Pa., for the first time combines both heat and massage in a single unit. The unit can be used either sitting up or lying down and the user can go on with such daily activities as reading, watching television or writing while using the cyclo-massage unit.

A reostat makes it possible for the user to regulate the heat and massage to the exact degree desired and a timer turns off both the heat and massage at intervals up to one hour. Thus the user can control the unit to fit his exact needs.

Tusler Motors Offers Driving Hints For Safe Fourth of July Holiday

To millions of motorists, the long Fourth of July weekend brings promise of a fun-packed three days of fishing, swimming, boating, golf, camping and other recreation. So says Tusler Motor company, of 1303 W. Wisconsin avenue.

The long holiday weekend also will spell tragedy to some of these motorists because they failed to observe the safety code of the highway.

To help reduce the holiday accident toll, Jeanne Smith, Dodge safety consultant, offers these suggestions for all drivers:

- Never pass a car on a hill or a curve where your vision is restricted.
- If children get out of hand, pull your car off the road and come to a complete stop before administering discipline.
- Keep on your side of the road, even though no other car is visible.
- Always give the other fellow more than his share of the road—and be careful of careless drivers who are overanxious to reach their destinations.

5. Be extra cautious when driving on unfamiliar roads.

6. If you stop along the highway for a picnic or to sightsee, pull your car entirely off the road.

7. Never pull out into traffic without first looking to see that the way is clear.

8. Come to a complete stop when entering a "stop" street or when emerging from an alley or private drive.

9. And, of course, don't mix alcohol with your fireworks fun.

A Good Labor Bill

The Kennedy-Ives labor reform bill has passed the Senate by a vote of 88 to 1, with Nevada's right-winger George Malone casting the only dissenting vote. The bill has been praised by Sen. McClelland, chairman of the committee that has been exposing corruption in the labor-management field, and by George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO.

With this kind of support, the public would be justified in thinking that the bill should have clear sailing in the House. But apparently that is not the case. Practically all commentators predict that the House will pigeonhole it, at least for this session. The only explanation given is that this is an election year, and that the House is more sensitive to the desires of labor leaders than the Senate.

It is difficult to understand why House members should feel the bill is politically dangerous. It is not often that the head of the nation's largest labor organization and the chairman of the committee that has exposed much union corruption agree on such a matter. Furthermore the bill was authored by a Democrat (Massachusetts's Sen. Kennedy) and a Republican (New York's Sen. Ives) both of whom are known for their friendliness to labor's cause. And

Federal Courts and Individual Rights

In view of congressional criticism of recent federal court decisions, every decision relating to the rights of the individual is now being watched with interest. Two recent decisions brought wide public notice and comment.

In one the Supreme Court overturned State department regulations denying passports to communists and others of allegedly questionable loyalty. In these cases the court held that passports could be denied under the law on only two grounds. One is that the applicant is not a citizen of the United States and the other that the applicant is engaged in conduct which would violate the laws of the United States. It is unlikely there will be much argument about the decision, since the court merely held that the department had acted beyond the authority granted by Congress. It seems to follow that if Congress wants such persons restricted in travel abroad, it will change the law.

In a more recent decision the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia ordered six persons who had been dismissed as security risks at Fort Monmouth, restored to their jobs with back pay. Much has been made of the fact that the six are the last of 33 dismissed as a result of the investigation by the late Sen. McCarthy: all 33 now have their jobs back.

But it should be noted that the court did not order the six reinstated because it found them innocent of the original charges but rather on the technical ground that the army had violated its own rules in that it had refused to tell them why they had been found to be security risks. It is inaccurate to blame the dismissals of the six involved in this case on some vague claim that they were ousted because of the great "shadow of fear" that supposedly hung over the nation as a result of Sen. McCarthy's activities.

Originally 33 army employees were suspended following the McCarthy hear-when 88 senators vote for a bill, there must be something good about it.

The bill's principal provisions require that labor unions hold elections by secret ballot at regular intervals, and report to the Department of Labor — and to their members — all pertinent data regarding their financial operations, including pension funds. Certainly no labor leader who is honest and who is really in office because his members want him there could find any logical reason for opposing such requirements. And certainly this kind of a law is needed to protect working men and women against the crooks, the thugs and the connivers who unfortunately have been able to take over a number of unions.

Conservative leaders such as Sens. Goldwater, Knowland and Bridges have criticized the bill as not going far enough. That may very well be true but it is not a good reason for opposing it, a fact recognized by all the conservatives in the Senate except Sen. Malone. Quite obviously this is a deliberately moderate bill, designed to draw support from all groups. Those who really want to see reforms in the labor-management field — and who doesn't, except the crooks? — should support this bill, and then they can push other, more controversial ideas in a separate measure.

ings Twenty-five were reinstated by the army immediately, and two more went back to their jobs after they had filed suits. The six remaining were dismissed after hearings at which the government produced no witnesses but acted on the basis of confidential information. After the initial hearings before the Defense department, each took his case to a security review board. The secretary of the army made the final decision advising each that his employment had been found "not clearly consistent with the interests of national security."

Now, five years later, the court of appeals sends the case back to the District court for disposition. All that has been established is that a person discharged as a security risk must be given the "findings of the security hearing board." And these findings, the court says, "are intended to give the employee information that he may use in seeking further consideration by the security review board or by the secretary of the army."

It is obviously nonsense to say that these men were discharged because of any fear generated in the McCarthy era. Since 27 others were restored to duty, these six might have been also. They were not because the security board and the secretary of the army had information, which they did not want to reveal which convinced them that these people should not be reinstated.

Those who see in this decision another victory for individual rights should note also that the 5-year delay has destroyed other rights. It is a clear case of "justice delayed is justice denied" and calls for correction. A further severe criticism of this form of justice is that in the past five years no one has learned any more than was known originally about the guilt or innocence of the six who will now presumably be restored to their old jobs.

Cigarets, Automobiles and Cancer

The cigaret manufacturers may get some dubious comfort out of the announcement that rubber dust from tire wear is probably a factor in the increase of lung cancer in cities.

Dr. Hans L. Falk, associate professor of biochemistry at the University of Southern California School of Medicine points out that nearly one third of the rubber in an automobile tire consists of a type of carbon black that is rich in benzpyrene, a recognized cancer-producing substance. The Air Pollution Control district estimates that auto and truck traffic generate seven tons of tire dust every day in Los Angeles county.

That is a sufficient quantity of cancer-producing material to be worthwhile eliminating, Dr. Falk says. He thinks it might not be too difficult to eliminate this objectionable substance since there are many types of carbon black some with little benzpyrene. Tire manufacturers may be able to develop a satisfactory carbon black with a low benzpyrene content.

It seems that Dr. Falk is rather optimistic. Why should tire manufacturers search for a low benzpyrene content tire? Would it sell any more tires? The cigaret manufacturers have gone to great expense to produce filters for cigarettes and to advertise them, but some cigarettes without filters are still selling very well. Perhaps the best example of public indifference to cancer-producing materials in cigarette smoke is the fact that Dr. Robert J. Samp, of the cancer research staff of the University of Wisconsin, at a meeting of the American Cancer society's unit at Dallas, Tex. While Dr. Samp was speaking on smoking as a cause of cancer, clouds of cigaret smoke were floating up from his audience.

Dr. Falk says the dust cigaret smoke and incinerator smoke are small pieces in the general puzzle of the effects of smog on health. He says if all three were eliminated the results might be noticed. On the other hand he says automobiles produce cancer-causing agents in three ways. Cars and trucks spread tire dust, exhaust soots and vapors and kick up asphalt dust from the pavements. In fact, Dr. Falk thinks auto and diesel exhausts are a big factor in the health problem of our cities.

So far no official health department has attempted to crack down on the cigaret trade. There have been attempts to inform the public on the subject and that is probably the correct way since smoking is a voluntary act. There may be hope of legislation regulating the spreading of tire dust and exhaust fumes since the city dweller has no choice about inhaling them. Yet such action must be far in the future for the prohibition of the internal combustion engine within city limits today would bring most cities to a dead stop with results probably much more damaging than cancer. About all a person can do now is to use moderation in smoking and to avoid street dusts and exhaust fumes as much as possible.

Cameron Parish Rebuilds but It Can't Forget

More Than 500 Died Year Ago In Hurricane

Kenneth L. Dixon, managing editor of the Lake Charles, La. American Press, worked tirelessly in the Cameron area when Hurricane Audrey smashed against the Louisiana coast June 27, 1957, and took more than 500 lives. Dixon, a former Associated Press columnist and war correspondent, describes the little fishing community on a visit one year after the storm.

BY KENNETH L. DIXON

Cameron, La. — Finally they found that they were not alone — that neighbors still are neighbors all over America. It was then, I think, they changed their minds and came back home to Cameron.

The speaker was white-haired, soft-spoken Sheriff O. B. Carter of Cameron parish (county).

The occasion was the first anniversary of Hurricane Audrey which ravaged this parish and took hundreds of lives one year ago Friday.

The subject is why an estimated 98 per cent of the beleaved survivors of Audrey's horror have returned to Cameron parish — although for weeks after the hurricane most of them swore, "I'll never go back there again."

Help From Everywhere

"They meant it then," says Carter. "It was partly shock, partly bitterness, partly sorrow — but mostly a great loneliness. And then they finally found that they were not alone, that help had come from everywhere. It gave them heart. They came home and started over. You can see what they have done."

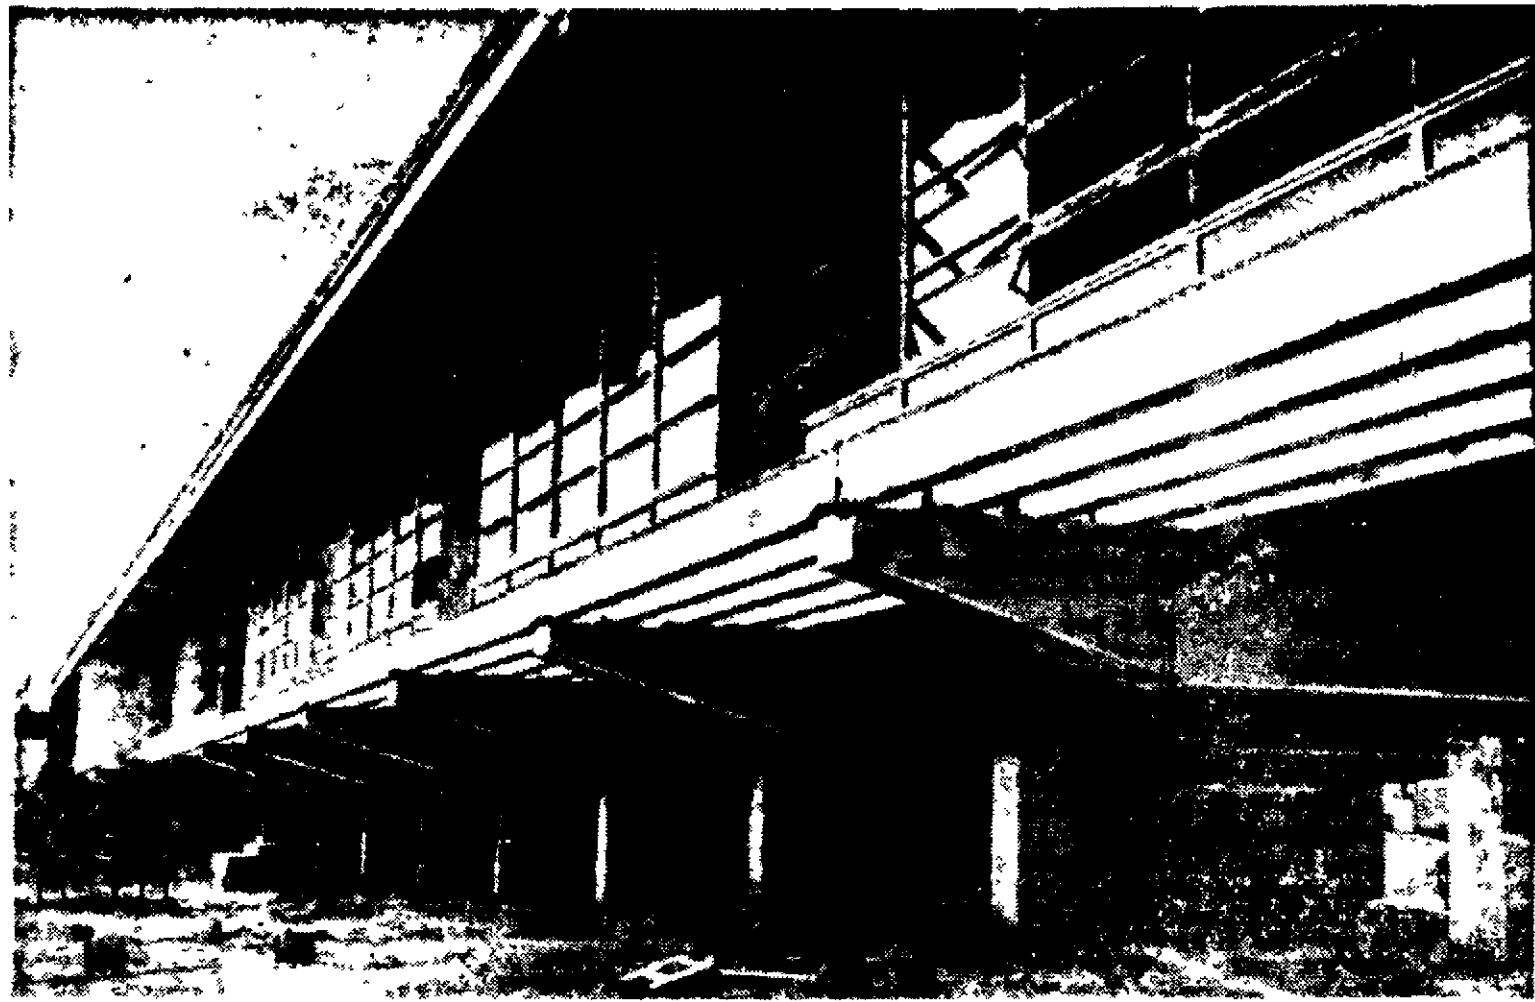

You can. Ninety per cent of the homes and other buildings in Cameron parish are new.

One year ago Thursday a cooled and deadly snake of wind and water tortured the seas of the Gulf of Mexico due south of Cameron. It was aimed due north, but it only inched along, its forked tongue of lightning flashing out in anger its rattling thunder rolling over the waves for miles.

It was the hurricane called Audrey.

Not Worried at First

Wrenching his wind-ravaged plane out of the hurricane's grasp, a passing pilot radioed back to his

This Is a Wing of the New Cameron Elementary school, Cameron, La., built to replace the old one swept by Hurricane Audrey's tidal waves June 27, 1957. The building rests on reinforced concrete piers and cross-

pieces in the same manner as does the roadway on a bridge. Designed as a refuge, the building has a heliport on the roof. (AP Wirephoto)

base "This one is a killer."

Some 500 (the estimates still vary) Cameron parish people who were to die next day were not yet worried. Even if she held her course — which hurricanes seldom do — Audrey's timetable wouldn't get her to the coast until late the following night.

They forgot — or never knew — that a hurricane, like a sluggish, angry snake, can suddenly uncoil and multiply its speed by many times, once it decides to strike.

A year ago Thursday night, angry Audrey uncoiled her victim, uncoiled and struck across the rolling waters, straight at Cameron parish.

Swiftly she picked up speed, jumping from 6 to 12 to 20 and finally to 22 miles an hour.

50-Foot Waves

She feinted once toward Texas — the Beaumont-Port Arthur area — and then cut back for Cameron, hurling waves as high as 50 feet before her.

Shortly after midnight, her twin fangs of wind and water struck the still sleeping people of Cameron, Creole, Grand Chemer, Little Chemer, Big Lake, Holly Beach, Pecan Island, the ridge roads and all the rest. She was 12 to 18 hours ahead of schedule — depending on the time her victims heard their last warning.

At one fairly sheltered spot in Cameron, at 2 a. m. the water was one foot deep. At 5:30, it was six feet deep. At 7:30, it was 12 feet deep.

But most places you couldn't measure. Winds of more than 100 miles an hour hurled the huge and crushing waves inland, destroying almost everything in their path.

Mammoth trees were uprooted and tossed like toothpicks. Concrete burial vaults were flung along for miles.

Homes Disappear

All the while people were dying, by the dozens, the scores and the hundreds. No one knows who went first, but shortly after midnight the dying began.

They died in their homes as 90 per cent of those havens crumbled apart like cardboard houses and disappeared in the dark and churning waters. They died in the treets, still clinging to their young. We buried some still locked together, for rigor mortis had continued in death the protecting embrace of life.

They died on floating beams and rooftops. They died in cars trying to escape — along roads which were mere causeways at first, and soon became nothing at all.

They continued dying after dawn. Weak from fatigue, exposure, shock, sunburn and hunger, one by one they slipped from the floating debris into the cluttered waters, miles and miles inland.

Hundreds Dead

Finally Audrey passed by and the rescue work began.

You know the rest of that story. . . . How they brought in the dead by the hundreds, first to the ice house at Cameron than to the docks at Lake Charles. . . . How they brought out survivors by thousands and fed them and sheltered and clothed them. . . . How they started to plan immediately to rebuild Cameron parish. . . .

It was then so many survivors said "I'll never go back there again."

But they did — and here's why.

Help started pouring in from all over the country in money in clothing in food and in labor," says Carter. "It came from the American people through the Red Cross, the Salvation Army, the AFL-CIO labor unions, the civil defense, the churches, the schools, the civic organizations, big companies and single individuals. You couldn't possibly list all the groups and individuals who helped."

Carter pauses, polishes his steaming glasses, reflects.

"At first it didn't seem to change the survivors' minds," he says. "They still were in a state of shock and stunned defeat. Of course, many of them came back right away. But the tide didn't turn for the big majority for two to four months."

Tremendous Damage

"But when they did come back it was mostly for the same reason. They realized they weren't forgotten, they weren't alone."

"And so they sort of shook themselves rolled up their sleeves and went at it. . . ."

Death toll estimates vary from 400 to 600, due to the possibility of duplicating the missing and the unknown dead. The figure 550 is used most often, but Carter doubts it's that high.

But Cameron is rebuilt. It's newer and stronger than ever. Now it has a hurricane warning system that's as near foolproof as men can devise.

Spanish War Fiasco; but We Won

BY LARRY STUNTZ
Associated Press Writer

The Spanish American War which was resolved 60 years ago this month was short but besides providing a generation of Fourth of July orators it also produced far more than a normal share of American folk sayings.

Out of it came "Remember the Maine," "The Message to Garcia," "You may fire when ready, Gridley," "Also the Cuba Libre" and "There'll Be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight," both still popular.

Its heroes were Teddy Roosevelt, whose Rough Riders did not take San Juan Hill, Hobson who sank the block ship in the wrong place, Adm. George Dewey, who did everything right, and Walter Reed who whipped yellow fever.

Beneficial Effect

It may also if you want to be deep about it have done something to heal the Civil War scars. It was the first time the Federals and the Confederates found an excuse to fight on the same side since shooting at each other from 1861 to 1865.

And it was a lesson in how to the United States in how not to fight a war. But the Spaniards started from so far behind scratch that not even U. S. mistakes could lose it.

The war was over so fast — it started April 21, 1898, and ended Aug. 12.

The Spaniards hadn't much wanted a war. When the United States offered to send Spanish soldiers home to Spain if they surrendered they gave up. The U. S. government paid a Spanish steamship company $800,000 to haul them home — certainly a cheap way to win a war.

Back in 1898 the Cubans were in their chronic state of revolt against the Spaniards.

The United States interested itself and demanded Spain recall her commander "Butcher" Weyler. Spain agreed to that and other things.

But before Spain's concessions could take effect — and the whole thing blew over — the Maine blew up or was blown up in Havana harbor. The war was on.

Winter Uniforms

Thousands of U. S. volunteers streamed into Tampa although the government had only woolen uniforms and single shot rifles for most of them. The U. S. government sent a message to Gen. Garcia commander of the Cuban rebels, that help was coming.

The Spaniards started their European fleet for the Western Hemisphere. No body knew where these ships were going.

Luckily about then the Havana office of the western Union notified the U. S. Navy the Spanish fleet had arrived in Santiago de Cuba. Lt. Richmond Hobson went out with a U. S. coal ship to scuttle it in the harbor entrance and bottle up the Spaniards. But his ship sank in the wrong place.

Gen. William Shafter and 17,000 other soldiers sailed from Tampa so fast they left most of the ambulances and supply wagons behind.

Shafter, with Wheeler commanding the dismounted cavalry — it hadn't been able to bring along the horses — skirmished up to the outskirts of Santiago.

Adm. Cervera led his fleet out of the harbor and it was destroyed July 3 by the U. S. fleet under Capt. William T. Sampson.

So did the feud between Shafter and Nelson. A. Miles his commanding officer, which arose along the way. Also the feud between Miles and the secretary of war and the one between the Army and Navy. All these lasted a whole lot longer than the war did.

Roosevelt took his Rough Riders up Kettle Hill outside Santiago while the infantry stormed San Juan Hill. Both objectives were taken.

Meanwhile yellow fever had broken out in the U. S. Lines. The race was whether American soldiers would starve without their supply wagons, die of yellow fever, or receive the Spanish surrender. Surrender came first.

A honeymoon trip to northern Wisconsin and Mackinac Island has been planned by Dr. Victor W. Stracke of Appleton, and his bride, the former Elizabeth Lee Taylor, who repeated wedding vows at 11 o'clock this morning at the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Taylor, 309 N. Drew street.

The Rev. Ralph Alton of First Methodist church officiated at the double ring rites and Fred Kaemmerer, Appleton, provided the music for the wedding, which was attended by family members.

During the ceremony, the bride was presented in marriage by her father. Attend-

St. Mary Catholic church was the setting for 10:30 nuptial rites this morning uniting in marriage Miss Nancy Barbara Davis, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth L. Davis, 305 S. State street, and Joseph E. Geenen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Geenen, Freedom.

The Rev. Adam Grill officiated at the double ring service preceding a nuptial high mass. The bride's uncle, Everett Davis, escorted Miss Davis to the altar.

Miss Patricia Jean Davis served her sister as maid of honor and two sisters of the bridegroom, Mrs. Michael Maulick and Miss Phyllis Geenen, both of Freedom, served as bridesmaids with Miss Evelyn Kersten, Menasha, a sorority sister of the bride.

Mr. Maulick attended the bridegroom as best man and Robert Davis, the bride's brother, aided as groomsmen with Robert Maulick, Freedom, and Donald Laub, Milwaukee. John Grobs and Michael Keelan, both of Milwaukee, showed wedding guests to their seats.

The young people will take a wedding trip to northern Wisconsin after they greet friends and relatives at a reception from 2 to 4 o'clock this afternoon at the Appleton Elks club. A noon luncheon was held at the club preceding the reception.

Mr. Geenen and his bride will make their home for the summer at Huntington, W. Va., where he will serve an externship at Huntington hospital. In September, the couple will move to Wauwatosa, with the young Mrs. Geenen assuming duties as a kindergarten teacher in Elm Grove. Her bridegroom will return to classes at Marquette university where he is a junior in medical school.

Our Children

Don't Carry Chip on Shoulder, Educator Tells Boys and Girls

BY ANGELO PAIRI

Boys and girls don't carry a chip on your shoulder and go about guarding it all your days. If you do there will always be somebody to knock it off and enjoy battling you, and that certainly will add neither to your stature nor your happiness.

None of us is like anybody else to start with and nature divided people into races. People divided themselves into groups like seeking like. That's the way things are and there is nothing to be done about it until someone makes it so. That's where those cranks that hurt feelings come in and that is where you come in too. Refuse to carry your feelings where they can be used like that chip and hurt. Just refuse to be hurt.

Not easy? Well, it is not so hard that it has not been done. Have you any sense of humor? Use it. Have a tongue in your head and a brain to move it? Use them. Can you smile in the face of stupidity and make the smile kindly? Of course you can.

Accept Yourself

The first step is to accept yourself as you are and like yourself. That includes honoring your father and mother. They are important people and nobody no matter what he says, can change that. Accept them. Accept your history. Know it and be ready like Disraeli to use it to maintain your dignity. There isn't a nationality, a group of religious people, a race, as represented in this country, and there are many, that cannot point with pride to its leaders, its traditions, and stand proudly as their representative and as Americans. No boy, no girl in this country need shrink from membership in his family or his group.

But there is that matter of acceptance. Acknowledge your heritage and resolve to make the best possible use of it and so become the best possible man or woman of today.

Today is your day, not the yesterday. What you use it for and what you make of yourself as you use it is your personal responsibility. Others have lived through this phase of their lives before you and came through triumphantly. What a man has done man can do.

Hostess 'Steams' About Heated Political Views at Party

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN: A certain man in our social group (the husband of a dear friend of mine) is forever getting into heated arguments. He has spoiled more than one pleasant evening with his cockeyed opinions on politics.

He finds plenty of people to fight with because he's neither a Democrat nor a Republican. He's a Socialist. He criticizes the Republicans because they are too conservative, and the Democrats, he says, don't go "far enough."

Like all such people, he's armed with the latest facts and figures. He quotes like crazy and pushes people into a corner because he sounds like such an authority.

How can we shut him up? All of us are pretty sick of it. He'll be coming to our home for a party the last Sunday of this month and I'd like a little help with this problem—NO SOCIALIST.

Are you assuming that "everyone is sick of it" or do you know this for a fact? Often people like to discuss controversial issues. They find it stimulating and informative even though they may disagree violently.

When the man is in your home, if the discussion becomes too hot for comfort, change the subject. If everyone is as fed up with him as you say, you'll get good support and the problem will be solved.

There's no question now, in anyone's mind, that my second wife deserves a medal for what she has done. I hope you'll print this letter, Ann, there must be other second wives around who deserve some words of praise.

—MR. ZEE

DEAR ANN: Why does the

It was my second wife who steered me through the stormy waters. She took my children to her heart and raised them to be fine citizens.

When I married her she came in for the usual criticism. Many people thought I was a rattlesnake to divorce my wife even though they knew she was an alcoholic who refused to help herself — or be helped by others.

Several widows of my acquaintance have had similar experiences. We're all sick and tired of defending ourselves and would appreciate a word from you. — D. D.

I simply can't believe that your particular city breeds a special brand of octopus that preys on widows.

True, a woman who has been married (be she a widow or a divorcee) may find herself busier fending off lecherous males, than a single girl — and the reason is obvious. But only a knucklehead would make repeated passes after he's been set straight in no uncertain terms.

A female can peg a relationship at the level acceptable to her. If a woman says "no" emphatically and leaves no room for speculation, she will have things pretty much as she wants them.

word widow bring out the worst in men? I'm 37 and the mother of two children. My husband has been gone three years. I've run into the identical pattern whether it's a theater date, a quiet ride in the country, or an invitation to a party.

The men seem to come equipped with an extra pair of hands. They assume that merely because a woman has been married she's open to any kind of proposition.

DEAR ANN: I've been reading your column for a long time and have never seen a letter giving a second wife the pat on the back that many of them deserve. Usually, the second wife who gets into your column is the younger woman who snags a well-to-do man. She gets him to cast aside the woman who helped him climb the ladder to success.

Better to Have Taken Gift Cigar

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: One of the men with whom I work just recently became a father. The other day he came into the office with cigars which he passed out to all the men. As I am a cigaret smoker myself and never smoke cigars, I refused it. I am told that I was wrong to refuse this gesture of good wishes to the new baby and that even though I do not smoke cigars, I should have taken it and given it to someone else. Will you please tell me if I was wrong?

Answer: You were not wrong, but it would have been better to have accepted the cigar with thanks as this would have avoided any possible impression that you did not share in the joy of the new father.

Recognition To Aunt

Dear Mrs. Post: I am to be married this summer and am puzzled as to how my wedding invitations should be worded. My aunt, who is my mother's sister and who is single, has raised me since my mother's death 15 years ago. My father also lives with us. Would it be proper to include my aunt's name along with my father's name on the invitations? I don't want to slight her as she has been wonderful to me.

Answer: Because of the awkwardness of the wording, it would be best to send the invitations in your father's name alone and recognize your aunt by having her seated last in the place of honor in the first pew and having her receive at the reception.

No Drink For Honored

Dear Mrs. Post: When someone drinks a toast to me, how long am I supposed to wait before drinking?

Answer: You don't drink it at all. After the toast to you has been drunk you may perhaps propose one to someone else. Otherwise you wait for a little while before you remember your own glass.

The POWER of FAITH

Galilee, Israel—Jesus spent a good portion of His early public life in the vicinity of the Lake of Galilee. Over its surface and shores, His love flowed out in a wave that engulfed the world.

It was here that He walked upon the water, calmed the angry storm, multiplied the loaves and fishes, and brought about the great catch that almost swamped the apostles' boat. The lake, lying 682 feet below sea level, is fished extensively to this day and still is famous for the violent storms that whirl out of its surrounding mountains.

But on the day I walked these shores, all was calm and quiet, save for the beat of wings over the still water. The water was a soft blue, dappled with sunlight; the surrounding hills diffused in a heavy haze. "And when He was entered into a ship, His disciples followed Him." (Matthew 9:23). (AP Newsfeatures)

Public Works Engineer Edwin J. Duszynski said Charles A. Green and Son, holder of a city contract, will install a 24-inch sanitary sewer in the street.

The sewer is a northward offshoot of the 27-inch major east-west trunk sewer being laid across the north limits of

Billy Pierce Nearly Hurls Perfect Game

Ed Fitz Gerald's Double in 9th Spoils Bid as Chisox Win, 3-0

Chicago — (P) "I'll never get any closer," smiled Billy Pierce after pitching 8 2-3 innings of perfect baseball only to have his bid for immortality ruined by pinch batter Ed Fitz Gerald's double.

With the Chicago White Sox leading Washington, 3-0, and two out in the ninth, Fitz Gerald was summoned to bat for pitcher Russ Kemmerer. He swung at Pierce's first offering and sent a clean shot down the right field line for a double.

A crowd of 11,300—cheering Pierce's every motion from the seventh inning on—sat back stunned even after Pierce struck out Albie Pearson to end the game. Their boos for Fitz

Three Burlington errors helped Rochester. Those miscues with three singles scored four runs in the seventh inning. Rochester's Ernie Nevers allowed only four hits, three coming in the seventh when Burlington got its only run.

Dodgers Trim Braves for 7th Straight Time

Koufax Limits NL Leaders to 7 Hits; Aaron Collects 3

Milwaukee — (P) After the fans had marched out of County stadium Friday night Braves Manager Fred Haney drew up a chair in the dressing room, began filing his nails and said, "There's no sense in getting panicky."

There was evidence on the other side.

The Los Angeles Dodgers had just defeated Milwaukee 3-1, handing the world champions their third straight defeat as the West coast team took its seventh straight over the Braves this season, and ninth in a row counting two triumphs at the tag end of last season.

It was also the ninth time in a row the Braves had been beaten by a left-hander.

Remain 1st

Haney's assertion, however, took on added weight after a look at the standings showed the Braves remained first in the National league by a game and a half, despite the loss and its attached string of statistics.

"It's just a matter of fighting our way out of it," the manager said. "But in addition to fighting the other side, we've got to battle ourselves out of this slump."

He also noted that better days may be ahead for Hank Aaron, back in the lineup after missing his first game of the season Thursday night after having a tooth pulled.

Aaron collected three of the seven Milwaukee hits allowed.

Area 'Sluggers' Try To Equal or Surpass Eggert's Showing

Second Annual Goodland Field Camp Is Wednesday, Thursday

"I wouldn't have missed the experience for anything!" The speaker was Darold Eggert, the all-star representative of the first Post-Crescent-Milwaukee Braves Sluggers school. The occasion was his return from Waycross, Ga., last April after more than a month of training in the Braves' minor league camp.

Menasha's Eggert was chosen from a group of more than 40 aspirants at the 1957 edition of the Silver Sluggers at Goodland field. Then, through his showing at the August All-Star game in Milwaukee County stadium, Eggert was one of five chosen from about 25 state all-star team players for a spring camp trip.

Stay Is Doubled

Originally slated to be a 2-week training period, Eggert's projected stay at Waycross was doubled. Though he wasn't signed to a pro contract at the conclusion of the period, Eggert considers the experience invaluable, and he sums up the camp trip like this: "As far as I was concerned, it was wonderful."

Next week, someone at the second Silver Sluggers school will try to equal and perhaps surpass Eggert's achievements. At least one player will be selected to represent the local school on the Wisconsin-Upper Michigan All-Star team.

The Silver Sluggers school is an endeavor in which all of the participants benefit in some measure. The player chosen for the all-star game, of course, comes off with the big prize.

But, other likely-looking prospects have a chance to make their impressions. And, more than likely, the scout-teachers (there will be three of them here Wednesday and Thursday) make mental and written notes on some of them for future reference.

And, every one of the players who turns out has a first-rate chance to improve his own

Plan 16-Team Softball Meet In Kaukauna

Eight Area Clubs Already Plan to Compete July 10-13

Kaukauna — The Kaukauna Athletic club will sponsor the first annual Kaukauna Softball tournament at the Dodge street diamond July 10 through 13.

A 16-team tournament is planned with four major trophies to be awarded. The first place team will receive one large trophy and 15 individual small trophies. The second place team will receive the same as the first place finishers but on a smaller scale.

Trophies will be awarded the third and fourth place teams and individual trophies will be awarded to players selected as the most valuable and the pitcher selected the most valuable.

Entry fees must be in to Les Dietzen or Art Nagel, co-chairmen of the tournament, by Tuesday.

Eight teams have already signified their intention of participating including Jitter and Joe's of Menasha with Fred Fuller as the pitcher; Subway bar of Appleton with Bob Diener and Les Dietzen as pitchers, and teams from Manitowoc, Two Rivers, Kewaunee, Luxemburg and Green Bay.

Kaukauna will be represented by a team which will be made up of the top individual players from the City Softball league.

Appleton Club Holds Annual Rifle Meet

Appleton Rifle and Pistol club began its annual National Rifle association meet today at its target range, and the competition continues all day Sunday.

The meet is restricted to National Rifle Association competitors. All matches are shot prone at 600 yards. There are four classes of matches: the NRA match, with a 30-06 rifle and iron sights; the any rifle-any sight match; the any rifle, iron sight re-entry match, where a competitor may use his best score in two or three attempts; and the aggregate class, which is the separate total of the first three matches. There is a total of 68 shots allowed per man, 20 per match with two sight shots in each match.

Shooters were scheduled to come from various parts of Wisconsin and Illinois, including Milwaukee, Chicago, Watertown, Madison, Waupaca, Sheboygan, and Green Bay, as well as from Appleton. George Bjornstad of Chicago, who holds the national record at 1,000 yards, is expected to participate. Henry Johnson, Neenah, is the referee.

Foxes and Bluejays Move Here Tonight

Green Bay Wins, 8-7, On Rally

Green Bay — Ozzie Walker's 1-handed over the shoulder catch of John Marr's fly ball to deep center field ended a ninth inning Fox Cities rally and helped give Green Bay an 8-7 victory in a hard-fought Three-I league game here Friday night.

Marr, who had three hits in three previous at bats, whacked a Bob Sedlak pitch 390 feet to deep center and Walker pulled it in on the run to strand a pair of Fox Cities base-runners.

The victory gave the Bluejays the series here, three games to one, after the Foxes had topped the opener. The Bluejays now have a 6-3 season's edge on their southern neighbors.

The clubs now move to Appleton for a 4-game series, starting tonight. Lefty Emmy Unzicker (3-3) is the probable starter for the Bluejays in the final game of the first round tonight while no-windup right-hander Ed Rakow (4-5) will probably toil for Green Bay Sunday evening.

Fox Cities Manager Pete Suder is expected to lead with his ace lefty, Dick Griffith (9-3) in the second round opener while probably going with another lefthander, Don Cameron (1-2) tonight.

The Foxes will celebrate "Men's Night" Sunday: Admission for men will be 35 cents in a family group and 50 cents otherwise. The price for a family group (father, mother

Fox Cities Second Baseman Billy Bone is expected to see action in the 4-game series the Foxes open with Green Bay tonight at Goodland field. The Foxes conclude the first half of the Three-I league season tonight and open the second round Sunday night. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Little Chute-Kimberly can cinch a tie for the first round title in the Fox River Valley Amateur baseball league by first round and the only club besides LC-K which can annex the solo first round crown without a playoff, play at Reedsville Sunday. The Macs have three more first round contests remaining.

Righthander Bob Schmidt will undoubtedly toil for Little Chute - Kimberly Sunday in search of his fifth straight win. Schmidt last pitched a week ago Thursday night and was rested in his club's 11-2 loss to the Macs last Sunday.

Saved Thursday

He was saved Thursday evening as the loop leaders romped to a 16-4 decision over hapless Harrison. His opponent may be either Bob Manthey or Jim MacKinnis.

Oshkosh has won two straight, beating Valley Fair and Two Rivers.

Lefthander Mort Drury seems like a good bet to toil for the Macs Sunday. He holds three of the club's circuit victories including the big triumph last Sunday. "Buck" Edinger (3-1) or Winton Jaeger (1-1) will probably oppose him.

It will be Tom Nytes Day at Kaukauna Sunday when the Klubbbers welcome Freedom in a meeting of fifth place co-game by capitalizing on the tips of the experienced baseball instructors who helped develop some members of the world champion Braves.

All players receive big league-type training — and get an opportunity to play in the games that top off each of the two night's workouts.

Each player named to the state all-star team will receive an expense-free trip to and stay in Milwaukee. The Silver Sluggers' star game will be coupled with the regularly-scheduled Braves-Pirates afternoon game Aug. 7 at County stadium.

After the game, players will be feted by the Braves at a Schroeder hotel banquet. The "Sluggers" will also be guests at the Braves' game the night of Aug. 6.

Five players from each all-star squad will be selected for further training and a spring try-out at Waukegan in 1959. Two players in the game will also be chosen for the national all-star game in New York Aug. 26.

The starting time of the sessions at Goodland field is 5 o'clock both Wednesday and Thursday evenings. No advance registration is necessary. Players will report to "Doc" Gautreau, Ernie Rudolph and Bill Edwards, the trio in charge.

Players must bring their own uniforms, gloves and shoes. All other equipment is furnished.

During a break in activities, free lunch will be served to all participating players.

Youths, 16 to 21, are eligible to take part. Athletes still eligible for high school play will not be considered for an All-star berth but may attend the classes.

Joe Gordon Hopes To Have Lineup Set in Week

Cleveland — (AP) — Joe Gordon, new manager of the Cleveland Indians who says he doesn't go in for platooning, hopes to have a set lineup for the Tribe in a week or so.

"It will take a while because I want to get a good look at all the players," he said Friday night prior to the Indians' 6-5 victory over Baltimore in his debut as manager. "I hope to make up my mind before the All-Star game July 8."

Busso Tops Carlos Ortiz In Sizzler

New York — (AP) — "Champion of the East Side tonight, Champion of the world tomorrow," Johnny Busso was the self-proclaimed "champion" last night in his dressing room at Madison Square garden after he had taken a split decision over previously unbeaten Carlos Ortiz in 10 sizzling rounds.

Busso lives in Astoria in the Queens area of New York now but he used to live on the East Side on 20th street. Ortiz, Puerto Rican-born and now a resident of the Bronx, used to live on the East Side on 28th street.

Ortiz hadn't lost in 27 previous pro fights.

Busso thought he won last night. So did two of the three officials but there were boos at the decision. A ringside poll of boxing writers found six voting for Ortiz, three for Busso and four calling it a draw.

Referee Barney Felix and Judge Bill Recht called it 5-4-1 in favor of Busso. Judge Artie Schwartz had it 6-4 for Ortiz. The AP card was 6-4 for Busso.

It was one of the best fights seen in the Garden this year, an interesting test of a free-swinging puncher (Busso) and a speedy boxer with fast hands pumping a solid body barrage (Ortiz).

Wally Moore Hits 612 Set

Includes 251 Game In Hahn's Total; Jensen Rolls 610

Wally Moore of the Pastime team smacked the two top bowling honor counts in the latest round of Hahn's Summer league. Moore got a 251 game and a 612 series.

In the Flower league, also at Hahn's, Bob Jensen of the Pansies rolled the highest series, a 610. Jensen's count included games of 221 and 200. Phil Rasmussen topped game scores with a 233, and was second in high series with a 606.

Dave Wittwer had second high series in the Summer league, a 575, including games of 200 and 206. Other honor counts included: Charlie Munchie, 233, 573; Bob Van Dinter, 558; Dick Jacoby, 222, 537; Mike Court, 534; Wille Falk, 527; Bob Wittwer, 208; Len Tesen, 202; and Jerry Ellenbecker, 202.

Despite Moore's hot streak, Pastime lost its sole hold on first in the league standings, as Hahn's topped the Tropics, 3-0, to tie for the top spot with Pastime, 11-4.

Sadie Belling led the women in the Flower league with a 184 game and 485 series. Other high counts were: Chet Christen, 206, 566; Bob Krueger, 222, 553; Mike Court, 204, 552; Joe Gregorius, 536; Jack Giesen, 224; and John Ludwikowski, 201.

The Apple Blossoms took three from the Roses to take over first from the Pansies, who won, 2-1.

MacKay Trails As Rain Halts 3rd Round

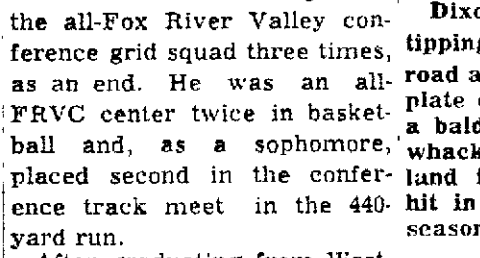

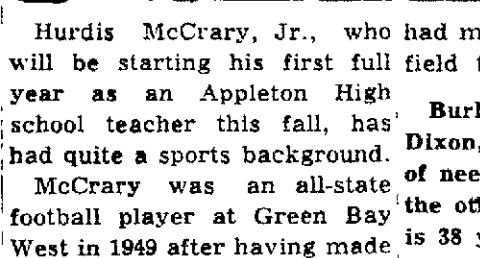

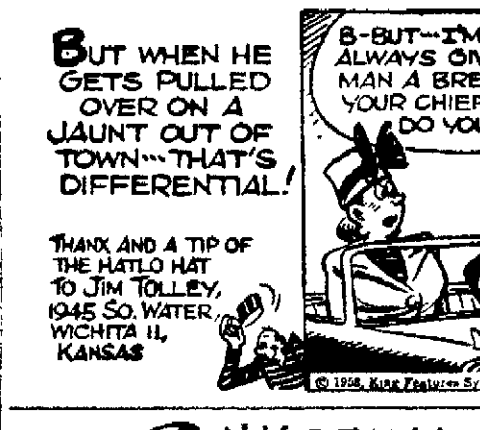

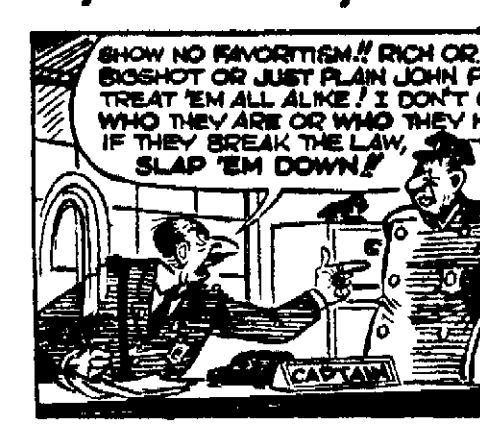

Wimbledon, England — (AP) — Barry MacKay, America's chief contender in the Wimbledon men's singles championship, trailed Australia's Bob Mark Friday when their third round match was interrupted by rain.

Mark led, 6-4, 4-5 on the soaked and slippery center court when a heavy rain turned into rain again and play was called.

Gardner Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., and Mike Green of Miami Beach, were all even at one set apiece in their third round match when rain halted the match.

Green won the first set 6-2 and Mulloy, playing in bare feet, took the second 6-4.

Time Out with Mike Drew

Hurdis McCrary, Jr., who had more away from Goodland will be starting his first full year as an Appleton High school teacher this fall, has had quite a sports background.

McCrary was an all-state football player at Green Bay West in 1949 after having made the all-Fox River Valley conference grid squad three times, as an end. He was an all-FRVC center twice in basketball and, as a sophomore, placed second in the conference track meet in the 440-yard run.

After graduating from West, McCrary went into the service and was wounded in Korea.

Upon his discharge, he enrolled at the University of Wisconsin and made the varsity football team as a freshman in 1952 (the year frosh were eligible). However, Hurdis didn't see much action because the fellow he was competing with for a regular job, Don Voss, was an all-American that season.

After McCrary's freshman season, the Veterans Administration—himself because he had been wounded—said that if he would stop his payments if Hurdis continued to play Big 10 football. So, he gave up the sport.

He graduated from Wisconsin in February, 1956, with a BA in business administration and then went into business with his father in Green Bay. Feeling that he'd like to try teaching, McCrary went back to college (at Wisconsin state at Oshkosh, and earned his teaching degree this January.

He taught English at AHS during the recently-completed second semester.

McCrary's dad, Hurdis, Sr., was an all-American fullback at the University of Georgia and then went on to pro fame with Green Bay Packers.

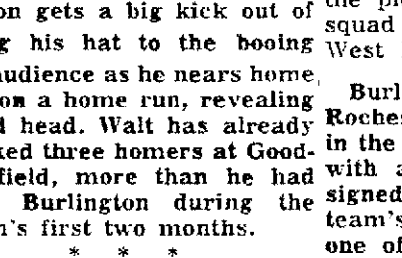

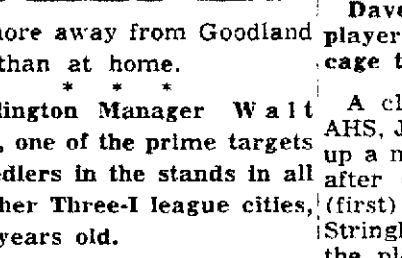

Hurdis, Sr., played on three league championship clubs with the Packers—in 1929, 1930 and 1931—with such Green Bay greats as Verne Lewellen, Sr., Johnny Blood, "Red" Dunn and Cal Hubbard.

Hurdis, Sr., played into the mid-1930s with the Packers before retiring. He now runs a hydraulics sales and service business in Green Bay.

Word from the Washington Senators' Class C farm club, Missoula, in the Pioneer league, is that a pair of boys who started the season with the Fox Cities Foxes are hitting the ball at a much better clip in the lower classification.

Center fielder Hilario "Sandy" Valdespino was reportedly batting over .350 while second baseman "Addie" Hintze was hitting about .310. Hintze was out of action for about a week with an arm injury.

Haney Says He Might Stick With Starters In All-Star Contest

Milwaukee — (AP) — Manager Fred Haney of the Milwaukee Braves, who will guide the National league team in the All-Star game at Baltimore July 8, says "never mind the window dressing, I'm out to win."

"If I have to use all eight pitchers, I won't hesitate to send them in," Haney told a news conference before Friday night's game with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"If we can go out in front, then the starting lineup will stay in there until we win it," Haney revealed the names of eight pitchers he will select but requested sportswriters not to use them until they are announced by the commissioner's office tonight.

He said he had selected two National league managers to assist him and identified them only as "one who has never been in an All-Star game before" and "one who has not been in one for four years."

Mayo Smith Plugs for Ace Reliever Farrell

Philadelphia — (AP) — "There isn't another pitcher in the league who more deserves a spot on the All Star team," says Philadelphia Phillies Manager Mayo Smith of his ace relief pitcher Dick Farrell.

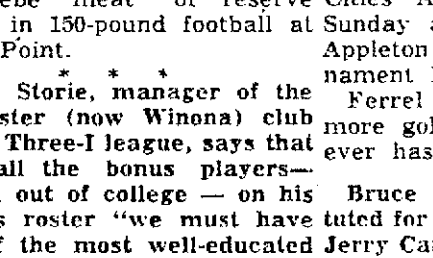

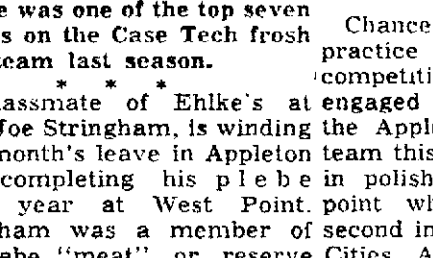

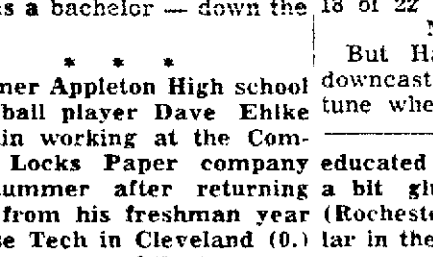

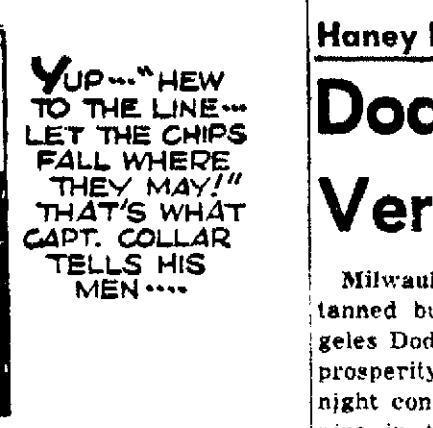

Smith put in the plug for his 24-year-old sophomore right-hander Friday night, the day before All Star Manager Fred Haney was to announce his National league pitching selections.

Farrell had just stopped St. Louis 6-game winning streak with his second extra-inning relief victory in two games. The Phillies prevented the second-place Cardinals from gaining on Haney's Milwaukee Braves with an 11-inning, 5-4 victory.

The Foxes' ailing first baseman "Tex" Taylor, figures to give the injury of his right leg quite a workout walking down to first on bases-on-balls when "Tex" returns to action.

Taylor, who owns one of the best batting eyes in the Three-I loop, received 27 walks in the Foxes' first 28 home games. No figures are available on Taylor's walks on the road but "Tex" says he thinks that he's

Haney Has No Rebuttal

Milwaukee — (AP) — The sun-tanned but last place Los Angeles Dodgers, who have found prosperity on the road, Friday night continued to stick verbal pins in the National league-leading Milwaukee Braves.

The Dodgers, now only six games behind the Braves in the ever-tighter race, celebrated a bit after they beat the Braves for the seventh straight time this year on a score of 3-1.

There was no real rebuttal from the world champions as Manager Fred Haney said, "Now I know how Birdie Tebbets felt."

Haney referred to the diamond dilemma endured by Tebbets and his Cincinnati Redlegs last year when they lost 18 of 22 games to the Braves.

Not Downcast But Haney refused to be downcast by the current ill fortune when he said, "It seems Former Appleton High school basketball player Dave Ehlike is again working at the Combined Locks Paper company this summer after returning home from his freshman year at Case Tech in Cleveland (O.).

Dave was one of the top seven players on the Case Tech freshman team last season.

A classmate of Ehlike's at AHS, Joe Stringham, is winding up a month's leave in Appleton after completing his plebe (first) year at West Point.

Stringham was a member of the plebe "meat" or reserve squad in 150-pound football at West Point.

Burl Storie, manager of the Rochester (now Winona) club in the Three-I league, says that with all the bonus players—signed out of college — on his team's roster "we must have one of the most well-educated clubs in baseball. We have musicians, school teachers and even a veterinarian on the roster."

"I remember going into Cincinnati July 4 after a similar dismal home stand and we were second then. But now we're still first. I feel confident it won't be long before we'll be hitting our stride again."

Carl Furillo, carrying on a running war of words with the Braves, had different ideas saying, "Remember what I told you in Los Angeles. Your club was going along on last year's reputation and boom-boom you're down in second place. Before you know it, you're lost in fourth."

"I don't know about us," he added, "but before we're through we're going to give somebody a big headache."

Like Sikky Sullivan "We're like Sikky Sullivan, the horse who trails behind by 32 lengths and then comes on to win," offered Don Zimmer. "Remember we're only six games behind."

Clem Labine said, "I've never seen our boys look any better than they've been here the last two nights. We've never had such good spirit. The club has never clicked the way it is now."

"You guys can blow this like you did in 1956," the reliever declared.

Even Dodger Manager Walt Alton, usually given to conservative conversation, recalled, "We were seven games behind late in July of 1956 and came back to win. So . . ."

May Seek Control of Drainage Projects

Conservation Department Likely to Ask New Legislature for Means to Protect Shrinking Wetlands Region

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Conservation department administrators will probably ask the next legislature to give them some control over drainage projects in the state, as a means of protecting the rapidly shrinking volume of wetlands needed for wildlife.

Overtures have already been made to an interim committee on conservation of the Legislative Council, headed by Sen. Reuben LaFave of Oconto. The committee has seemed to respond favorably.

Drainage Projects

Department men were asked by committee members recently if they would support a requirement that all drainage projects be reported to the state fish and game administration.

Department officers replied that they would prefer a new law requiring all land drainage contractors to be licensed by the state and requiring them to report all of their projects at least 30 days in advance of execution.

(At present there is no public control over the small drainage project. The state public service commission enters a case that involves navigable waters. The conservation department is not directly involved, except in a farm drainage district. In that event it is entitled to testify at public hearings prescribed for such organization proceedings.)

The legislative committee has indicated at earlier sessions a keen interest in the preservation of wetlands, which the conservation department has repeatedly nominated as the key wildlife conservation problem facing the state today.

Sportsmen for years have complained about the activities of federal agricultural agencies, which have encouraged private land-owners to drain lands for additional crop production in spite of the problem of agricultural surpluses, while the wildlife conservation agencies protested in vain.

Seek Market For Alewife Fish Species

Abundance Is Such In Green Bay Waters That Value Is Seen

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — The Great Lakes commercial fishery advisory committee of the state conservation department has asked for national government assistance in developing commercial markets for the alewife, a comparatively new species of fish that has become common in Green Bay and Lake Michigan waters in the last few years.

The fish have no demand on the market now, but their abundance is such that they could become an important economic asset if commercial uses are devised, according to committee members.

Pet and fur animal food processing industries were suggested as possible markets.

The committee members and state department technicians noted that in some of the New York state lakes the alewife is an important element in the diet of lake trout.

Growth of Trout

If the lake trout can be revived through the elimination of the predatory lamprey from Lake Michigan, the alewife should contribute to the rapid growth and multiplication of the valuable trout, it was suggested.

Another report had it that the alewife died off in considerable numbers in northern Green Bay during the last spring.

Biologists speculated that the cause was temperature fluctuation, which the fish apparently is unable to survive.

A muskie marathon conducted by the chamber this year has added incentive to the muskie fishing in the area. So far more than a hundred muskies, with a total weight of over a half ton have been registered with the chamber of commerce.

Schedule Drama Based On Hatchet-Murder Case

New York—(AP)—One of Broadway's favorite subjects, the Lizzie Borden hatchet-murder case of 1892, is now being prepared as a drama, "The Legend of Lizzie."

The title role is to be portrayed by Anne Meacham, winner of critical acclaim this year in Tennessee Williams' "Garden District." The play is scheduled for fall presentation.

Federal Game Agent Sets Up Madison Office

Vernon C. Conover Directs Enforcement Of Migratory Rules

Promotion and transfer of United States game management Agent Vernon C. Conover from Rochester, Ind., to Madison, has been announced by regional Director Robert W. Burwell of the Federal Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife in Minneapolis, Minn.

Conover will direct enforcement of federal conservation regulations, and management surveys relating to migratory birds, administered by the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife in Wisconsin. He will establish headquarters at Madison to aid in coordination of federal migratory bird programs with related activities conducted by the Wisconsin conservation department.

Nebraska Native

Conover is a native of Nebraska. He attended public schools and the University of Nebraska at Lincoln, and served as a Nebraska conservation officer for twelve years prior to his employment with the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife in 1944.

He has had broad experience in waterfowl management while serving as a game management agent in Minnesota, Missouri, Illinois and Indiana. During his assignment in Illinois, major portions of the Horseshoe lake and Union county Canada goose hunting areas were developed. He is an airplane pilot, having served both as pilot and observer in the United States and Canada on waterfowl surveys of breeding grounds.

State Purchases Wildlife Area In Outagamie

The Wisconsin conservation commission has approved the purchase of 411 acres in the towns of Bovina and Maine for $4,000 from Outagamie county.

The land, in the northwest part of the county, will be developed by the state conservation department as a public hunting area. The property has been leased by the state and its purchase permits the department to go ahead with a development program.

The per acre price to be paid to the county amounts to about $9.71, a report from the commission indicates.

Robert Manel, Appleton, Above, and three companions from Green Bay found Northern Ontario, Canada, an angler's paradise. Lake trout and walleyes were the main object of their intentions at Camp Missanibi. Manel is shown with part of one day's catch of walleyes. The pike averaged about four pounds each.

Fishing Still Poor but See Improvement

Panfish Biting in Most Regions, State Conservation Wardens Say

For the third consecutive week state conservation wardens have come up with a collective report on fishing conditions which leaves something to be desired.

There are indications, however, that things may be improving.

Panfish, wardens say, are biting in almost every area. Some areas report good trout fishing, particularly Marinette county.

Muskie activity is fairly slow. The biggest muskie reported was one of 42 pounds taken on Springstead lake in Price county.

The county by county review:

Waupaca county—Warden Rex Oatman: Panfish have been biting good on all mill ponds. Partridge and Bestul lakes. Some large northern pike and bass being caught on the Chain O' Lakes. Limits of trout being taken at night from Bear lake. Stream fishing for trout has been best on Emmos and Peterson creeks.

Sheboygan county—Warden Glenn Peppel: Good catches of crappies being made at Crooked lake with small minnows trolled slow and shallow over weed beds. Panfish biting in most waters. Some northern pike being taken on Random lake and Sheboygan marsh. Bullheads biting good at Sheboygan marsh.

Fond du Lac county—Warden Charles Schlumpf: Fishing for walleyes and whitebass on Winniebag remains fair to good. Windy days best. Fishing on other lakes remains fair but fishing pressure not too great.

Portage county—Warden Chuck Wranosky: Fishing on north end of Lake Winniebag remains fair. Some walleyes being taken on artificial and minnows. Perch and bass active slow. Wolf river slow. Some catfish and bass being taken.

Outagamie county—Warden Herb Schneider: Panfishing good. Nice catches of crappies and bluegills taken on Pickering lake and Lake Emily. Trout fishing good. Walleyes and northern pike.

Waushara county—Warden Herb Lebeck: Trout fishing good. Most streams but in general better catches being taken from lakes such as Pear and Pine. Good bluegill fishing on Big Silver, Long and Fish lakes. Bass fishing good.

Lost Stock May Revamp Muskie Plans

Madison — Loss of the entire stock of muskie fry at Woodruff fish hatchery this spring will bring a drop in stocking quotas, the conservation department said today. Most seriously affected will be stocking of small fingerling fish.

Dr. Edward Schmeberger, fish management director, said this was the third time in 20 years that an entire muskie hatch had been lost. The loss represented fry from three million eggs. All died within five days after hatching.

Early spring temperature variations are suspected as the reason, Schmeberger said.

State Plans Study of Black Bear Population

Live Trapping in Northeast Section Expected to Provide Much Information

The game management division of the Wisconsin conservation department has announced a study designed to gather management information on the black bear will begin this summer.

The project will be under the leadership of George J. Knudsen who has handled the beaver management study for the department for the past eight years.

Trapping Hunting

This species which has high aesthetic and big game values has been on the increase for a number of years and today many management problems need answers. Actually, although bear are common in Wisconsin, there are many aspects of the life history and habitat requirements and preferences about which very little is known. A better understanding of bear habitat will make it possible to predict population trends and to actually plan for forest types designed to sustain substantial bear populations.

Much information is needed on seasonal and annual movements of bear. Are diseases and parasites important in limiting populations or are trappings and hunting the chief controls upon their numbers? From how far will bear consistently return to an area from which they have been moved? Answers to these and other important questions will be sought.

A great deal of the information will be obtained from a live trapping and ear-tagging study, which will be started in Iron, Vilas, Oneida, Forest, Marinette and Oconto counties in the northeast area soon. Bear that are live trapped will be released unharmed—some where they are trapped; others will be moved varying distances from the trapping site. This effort will provide information on longevity, movements, percentage of harvest, number of bears in a given area, etc. The traps, trapping methods and handling techniques developed will prove useful in the future in handling bear which have become too numerous for safety around camps or which are causing damage to private property.

Publicity Ordered for Industrial Potential

Chamber Leaders Want Long Range Program To Develop Favorable Picture of Appleton

A long-range promotion program to publicize Appleton's industrial potential was ordered drafted Friday by the chamber of commerce's industrial development committee.

Victor I. Minahan, Jr., editor of the Post-Crescent, will be chairman of the study committee and will work closely with Richard H. Brady, president of the Brady company, Appleton advertising agency. Other committee members will be selected shortly.

George Howden, committee chairman and president of Appleton Industrial Development corporation, said Minahan's committee specifically is asked to answer these questions: What should the chamber committee do to advertise, promote and sell Appleton and its resources to create a proper climate for expansion of present industries and to entice new industries?

How Much

How much of the mass of information about Appleton which the fact-finding committee has gathered should be used in the promotion program?

How much should be spent in the promotion program? Promotion of Appleton's potential was assigned to the committee last September when the committee met with the industrial development committee of the city council.

The council committee, it was agreed then, will provide land for an industrial development park and furnish the park with city services. Subsequently, the council committee got the council to buy a 40-acre industrial park at the southwest limits of the city. Furnishing of services awaits completion of annexation procedures, Mayor Clarence A. Mitchell explained.

Create Picture

Appleton Industrial Development corporation, when it was formed in April as a non-profit, stock organization in the same general fields, outlined its duties as a combination of the duties of both committees.

Minahan said he believes it would be foolish to advertise the industrial wares in a "hard sell" way. Industrial expansion has dipped, he said, and probably won't come back strong until sometime in 1960. Advertising, he added, probably would be better directed toward simply creating in the minds of industrialists and others a favorable picture of Appleton.

The hesitant expansion climate should not affect advertising, however, it was contended. Industrialists, Howden explained, welcomed the breathing spell in expansion activities and are planning now, in better detail than before, for the next expansion period.

Ben Pfeiffer suggested direct mail advertising to top executives in the country as a less costly method than magazine advertising. Others suggested billboards, Kenneth C. G. Webb said the best advertising possible probably would be sale of part of the industrial park to show there is a planned development area in the city. Minahan said it may be best to send a man or delegation to call on major companies.

Leaders Favor Investment Howden reported copies of Gus A. Zuelke's site committee report are being forwarded to the state industrial development office, the Chicago and North Western Railway company and the Soo Line Railroad.

Walter L. Rugland, chamber president, reported a meeting of 11 past presidents indicated the chamber ought to invest some of its reserves in the development corporation. Howden said Harold Adams' corporation committee on stock sale possibilities is expected to report with recommendations shortly.

Adams' committee will recommend the amount of value of each stock. It also was asked to find out whether stock purchases are deductible from income taxes.

Oshkosh — Cleo E. Stevens, 33, Kansas City, Mo., is being held in the county jail pending arraignment on worthless check charges.

Stevens was arrested by Oshkosh police at 7:40 Friday evening in a downtown Oshkosh tavern after police departments throughout the valley had been alerted by Neenah police.

Defer Deadline For $50,000 Pool Gift at Oshkosh

Oshkosh — The deadline for accepting William E. Pollock's gift of $50,000 toward construction of a swimming pool in Oshkosh has been moved from June 30 to December 15.

Pollock has stipulated that the Oshkosh city council must have adopted a resolution to erect the pool and bids must be let by that time.

The city council had asked for an extension of time to consider a proposal to build the pool in conjunction with a new high school.

Pollock did not object to building the pool in connection with the high school, but voiced the fear that "if the matter is tied up with construction in connection with a school building, there may be further delays in getting the pool built."

He warned that further extension of his offer was unlikely. His pledge to the building of the pool in memory of his wife was to be matched by private subscription and $200,000 from the city of Oshkosh.

Line a nine-inch cake pan with the dough, covering the bottom of the crust generously with sliced peaches.

Clothing Tips For Summer Listed by Agent

Neenah — Clothing should be selected according to the weather, the type of work you do and whether you work indoors or outside. The coolness or warmth of a garment will depend on its fabric, color and design.

Stiff fabrics which move as the wearer moves, stir up the air and this air movement is cooling. Flimsy fabrics which cling to the wearer do not allow the air circulation which the stiffer materials do, says Miss Lois Klusmeyer, county home agent.

Light starching is fine for summer garments, but medium to heavy starching only will make a person warmer. Linen, organdy, well-finished gingham and cotton shirting are cool, naturally stiff fabrics.

When you perspire, you will be more comfortable in a linen or cotton fabric since they blot up the moisture and then dry quickly. Denim, rayon and nylon pick up moisture more slowly.

Avoid high necklines, snug collars and cuffs, and tight belts which keep air from moving in and out.

Tokyo Edges Out London as World's Present Largest City

BY RAMON COFFMAN
A letter from 12-year-old Sharon L. McKenna contains these words:

"I have become involved in an argument about the question of which is the largest city in the world. I am hoping you will tell which is largest: London, New York or Tokyo."

Last year's almanacs gave first place to London, with New York second and Tokyo third. A new census was taken in Tokyo last June, after those almanacs were printed.

Going back 70 years, we find that Tokyo had a population of only about one million, as against 4 million in London. Since then, the average growth of Tokyo has been about 110 thousand per year, as compared with a yearly increase of about 60 thousand for London.

Twenty years ago, while I was visiting Tokyo, a Japanese newspaper writer said to me that Tokyo was destined to be the largest city in the world. Now, on the basis of the
